UCSF Employees Heavily Hit by East Bay Fire

No one could have guessed the incredible tally of destruction caused by the East Bay inferno two weekends ago: at least 25 dead, 150 injured, close to 3,000 homes and apartments badly damaged or destroyed, some 5,000 left homeless. The cost? Over $1.5 billion. It was one of the most destructive wildfires in US history. A disaster of that magnitude affects us all. But specifically, how did it affect UC and our own campus?

More and more details of the devastation come in daily. This is what we knew at press time:

Losing their homes were: 14 employees from the President's Office; 69 faculty, 40 administrators and staff, and another 200 students from UC Berkeley; 46 faculty and staff from Lawrence Berkeley Lab; and 20 scientists and staff from Lawrence Livermore Lab.

At UCSF, at least 45 faculty, staff and students had their homes or apartments badly burned or completely destroyed. Most are faculty members from departments within the School of Medicine. Countless other campus employees had relatives and friends living in areas where there now is nothing more than ash, ruins and memories.

No employees have been reported injured, dead or missing.

Michelle Unterman, administrative analyst in clinical pharmacy, lived in the Parkwoods Apartments, on Caldecott Lane, not far from where the fire began. That is where most of the dispossessed UC Berkeley students also lived. She managed to get out with her life and a few pieces of clothing. "I thought I smelled smoke, but I didn't think it was anything serious," says Michelle. "I went to my balcony where it was very windy outside and very smoky. Someone yelled that there was a fire on the hill, but it seemed pretty far away. I called the building security guard who said that it was just some smoldering from a fire the day before. But in less than two minutes, we heard someone on a megaphone telling us to evacuate immediately."

Michelle explains that there was only one garage exit for this eight-building, 450-unit complex. "We just sat there and waited as the flames crept within two feet of the building. People were running into each other. We finally got out of the garage and by that time fire was on both sides of the road. I was terrified. We could feel the heat coming through the car," says Michelle. "It took us another 15 minutes to get out of the area."

Stories of the disaster abound, most depicting the incredible fury of the fire and how quickly people lost their life's possessions.

United Way Can Help

Tragedies such as the recent East Bay fire make you realize how important it is to have someone there to help in time of need. When people suffer the consequences of disasters, whether large or small, they often need support . . . from basic food and clothing to trauma counselling, from health care to legal services.

During UCSF's United Way Campaign, which runs November 4 to 15, you will have the opportunity to donate to a wide variety of services, including crisis care agencies which specifically have helped victims of the recent Oakland/Berkeley hills fire.

The United Way envelope you will receive will contain a brochure listing its member agencies by county. For a more comprehensive description of services available in Alameda county, plus the counties of Contra Costa, Marin, San Francisco and San Mateo, see your donor representative. He or she has a United Way "Help Guide," which summarizes the different categories of services that The United Way benefits in those counties.

Whether you give to an East Bay agency, the general United Way fund, or any non-profit health or human care agency in California, please donate whatever you can, and be part of the UCSF United Way Campaign. A donor representative from your department soon will be giving you a contribution envelope. Why not follow your heart, dig into your pockets and join your co-workers and give. Remember, you also may take advantage of the convenient payroll deduction option.

Many departments and divisions on campus are having raffles and the like to increase participation (see page 8 for the Medical Center's prize list) The School of Medicine this year is having a contest

New Era in AIDS Care

A Center for Early Intervention Opens on Folsom Street

When the Center for Positive Care opened its doors on October 1, it ushered in a new era of care for those infected with HIV. This new early-intervention resource center, located at 3180-18th Street near Folsom, is a collaborative effort of the UCSF AIDS Health Project, the National Task Force on AIDS Prevention, the San Francisco Department of Public Health, and 16 other San Francisco organizations involved in the fight against AIDS.

The Center for Positive Care is one of the first of its kind in the US. Its purpose is to help people who have HIV easily find their way through the maze of complicated and sometimes confusing health care procedures. It combines in one location all the information an HIV-infected person needs to know. The Center offers, or soon will offer, basic HIV information and where and when clinical trials are being held, HIV testing, and referral services, seminars on early HIV intervention and gynecological issues, support groups, and psychosocial counseling.

"The Center is free and open to everyone," says psychiatrist James Dilley, executive director of the UCSF AIDS Health Project. "But, probably people who do not have primary care physicians will use the services the most. People who don't know where to turn.

Schiele is #2 in MedQuiz Show

Third-year medical student Mark Schiele came in second in Lifetime Medical Television's quiz show MedQuiz. Schiele competed with medical students from the University of Pennsylvania and the University of Texas in cable TV's medical version of the "College Bowl." The show first aired on Lifetime Cable on October 27 and will be repeated on Sunday, November 10, at 6:30 p.m. and December 8 at 5 p.m. Schiele won $2,000, plus the School of Medicine received an unrestricted scholarship grant for $2,500.

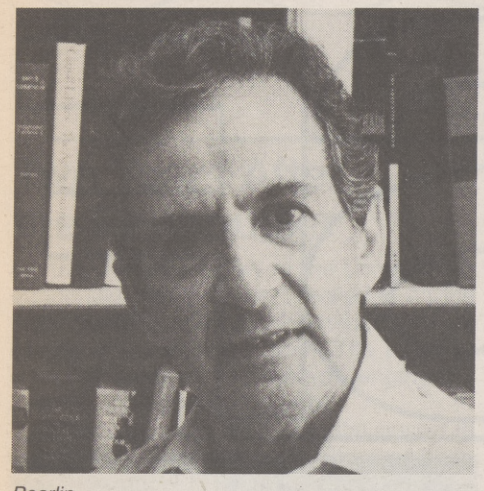
Honors & Awards



Pearlin

Leonard I. Pearlin: Winner of the Leo G. Reeder Award for Distinguished Scholarship to Medical Sociology. The award recognizes his distinguished career and his significant contributions to the sociology of health and medicine, especially in the area of chronic stress, its social antecedents and mental health consequences. Pearlin is professor, medical sociology.

Jane S. Norbeck: Appointed to a two-year term as chair, Chartered Study Section, NIH National Center for Nursing Research. The study section annually reviews and scores over 200 nursing research grants. Norbeck is professor & dean, School of Nursing.

Daverin L. Jackson: Winner of the 1991 Edilberto Antonio Rodriguez Award. The award is presented each year in memory of Rodriguez to the UCSF medical student who best exemplifies the qualities of Rodriguez, including determination to overcome personal adversity to pursue a medical career, commitment to providing health care to underserved communities and moral and professional standards that inspire colleagues. Rodriguez died in 1987 at the age of 41. Jackson is a fourth-year medical student.

John L. Ziegler: Will deliver an Honors Program Lecture on AIDS in Africa at New York University Medical Center on November 4. Ziegler is professor & associate chief of staff/education, medicine; director, AIDS Clinical Research Center.

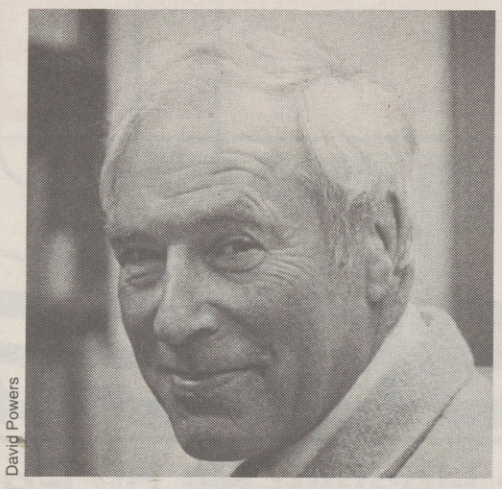
Green

Allen J. Green: Awarded a fellowship from the American College of Dentists at their annual meeting Oct. 4 in Seattle. Green is clinical professor, restorative dentistry.

Lawrence Litt: Selected to serve as a member of the NIH Neurology A Study Section, Division of Research Grants. The study sections review grant applications submitted to NIH and make recommendations to the appropriate NIH advisory council or board. Litt, who will serve until 1995, is associate professor, anesthesia & radiology.

Edwin F. Rosinski: Awarded an honorary life membership to the California Pharmacists Association for his outstanding contributions to its educational foundation. Rosinski is professor, medical education.

John S. Greenspan and Deborah Greenspan: John was chosen external examiner of the Oral Biology & Oral Pathology Program at the University of Queensland in Brisbane, Australia. He also delivered the keynote address, entiltled "AIDS & Dental Research," at the Australia & New Zealand Division of the International Association for Dental Research on October 1. Deborah was named visiting professor of oral medicine at Queensland from Sept. 28 to Oct. 11. John is professor & chair, stomatology; professor, pathology. Deborah is clincial professor, stomatology.



David Powers

Schmid

Rudi Schmid: Honored by American Liver Foundation SF Chapter and Wells Fargo for his contributions to research, teaching and patient care in liver and digestive diseases. He is professor, medicine; associate dean, international relations.

In Memoriam

Miriam E. Simpson: Professor emeritus, anatomy and former director, Institute of Experimental Biology at UCB. During her long career in the Department of Anatomy and the Institute she, with her colleagues H.M. Evans and C.H. Li, founded modern endocrinology by defining functions of the hormones of the anterior pituitary gland. The work of Simpson and her colleagues led to major insights into reproductive physiology. Their studies appeared in scientific literature for over 50 years. Born in 1894, she was regarded as an outstanding teacher of medical and graduate students. Simpson was 97.

Patricia D. Snell: A word processing specialist in the CVRI, she worked with Jay Nadel in the Pulmonary Research Group for 12 years. Working at home and in the office to prepare manuscripts and grants, Snell is estimated to have assisted over 60 fellows, as well as staff members, with editorial assistance and expert word processing. She gave special attention to foreign fellows, helping them write their papers in English, and her willingness to teach encouraged her "computer illiterate" co-workers to learn word processing. She was 40.

$1.5 Million Grant Goes to Wrensch for Brain Cancer Study

Margaret R. Wrensch, an assistant professor in the Department of Epidemiology and Biostatistics, has received a five-year grant for $1,569,051 from the National Cancer Institute to study malignant glioma, the most common form of brain cancer, and one that is debilitating and rapidly fatal.

"Very little is known about the causes of this cancer and its relationship to familial, genetic and environmental factors," says Wrensch. Her study, entitled "Genetic Epidemiology of Malignant Glioma," will examine approximately 450 newly diagnosed glioma victims and 450 controls. Detailed family medical histories then will be collected from approximately 5,300 close relatives of both groups. Other factors also will be examined, including occupation, smoking, alcohol use, diet, water sources and electromagnetic field exposure.

The patients and controls will be drawn from five Bay Area counties.

Nominations Due for Royer Award

Nominations now are being accepted for the Dr. J. Elliott Royer Award, which is presented by UC to a San Francisco or East Bay physician. This year's award will recognize outstanding contributions to the field of neurology. The award, which alternates each year between physicians in neurology and psychiatry, includes a cash grant of $25,000.

Letters of recommendation, setting forth in detail the basis for nomination, should be submitted no later than Monday, November 25, to The Royer Committee, School of Medicine, Office of the Dean, Box 0410. Nominees must be active in the field of neurology in the counties of San Francisco, Contra Costa or Alameda. For further information call the Dean's Office at 476-2341.

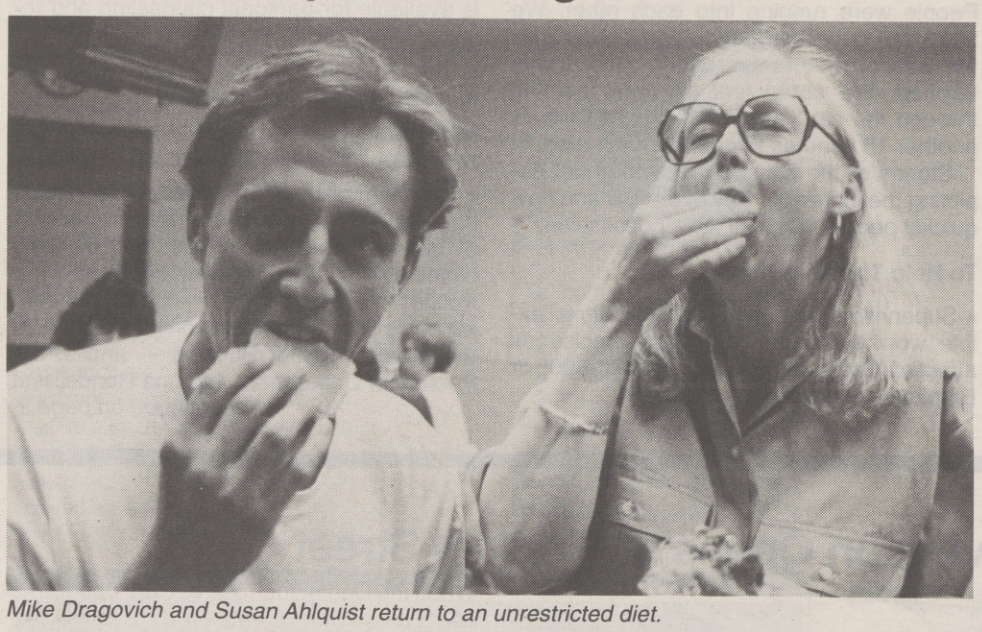
They are in the early stages of dealing with a positive diagnosis, and they are overwhelmed and intimidated by all the scattered information that is available." He adds, "The Center will see people through the entire process, making sure they will take the next step to help maintain their physical and mental health."

At the present time, the AIDS Health Project has three other staff members at the new Center besides Dilley: Marisa Davis, who is concerned primarily with women's advocacy outreach programs; Ellen Goldstein, who handles the administrative functions of the office; and psychiatrist Erik Wheaton, who presently is putting together a medical and social services reference manual.

A Lesson They Won't Forget



Mike Dragovich and Susan Ahlquist return to an unrestricted diet.

In her diabetes course for the School of Nursing's Master's Entry Program students, the Diabetes Teaching Center's Rae Jayne decided to try something new: She asked for volunteers to try spending two or three days living as a person with diabetes.

Three students — Susan Ahlquist, Nilda Perez and Mike Dragovich — made the commitment to incorporate glucose monitoring, insulin injections (actually sterilized water or saline solution in this case) and a restricted diet into their regular regimens.

In their presentations following the experience, all three expressed plenty of frustration, even anger, at the problems posed by such a lifestyle, said Rae. "But they agreed that without this experience they would have trouble truly understanding the implications of living with diabetes." Considering the number of diabetics a health care worker encounters in a day's work, Rae feels the lesson will be invaluable — and that these three students will serve as an important resource for the other students in the program.

to see which departments can come up with the three top ideas to increase the School's participation in future United Way campaigns. The prizes, contributed by the Dean, are $1,000, $500 and $250. Deadline is November 15, the final day of the campaign.

Please note: The United Way has established an East Bay Fire Emergency Fund. However, this is a temporary fund which has been set up for "immediate care" needs. The money you donate through the UCSF United Way Campaign will be alloted to agencies throughout the 1992 year, and cannot be designated specifically to the East Bay fire victims.

Goosby Takes Top HIV Position in D.C.

Eric Goosby, assistant professor of medicine at SFGH, has accepted a position as director of HIV Services for the Department of Health and Human Services in Washington, D.C. He will administer $270 million in Ryan White funds for AIDS clinical care in 18 cities in the US. Goosby has served as medical director of the Substance Abuse Service/AIDS Clinic at SFGH and as assistant medical director of the Ward 86 AIDS Outpatient Clinic.

Armed with the expertise gained at UCSF and SFGH, Goosby's new position will allow him to help bring about the best possible clinical care for AIDS patients around the country.

UCSF's First Sculpture Exhibit

Stephen de Staebler's "Winged Walking Woman VI"

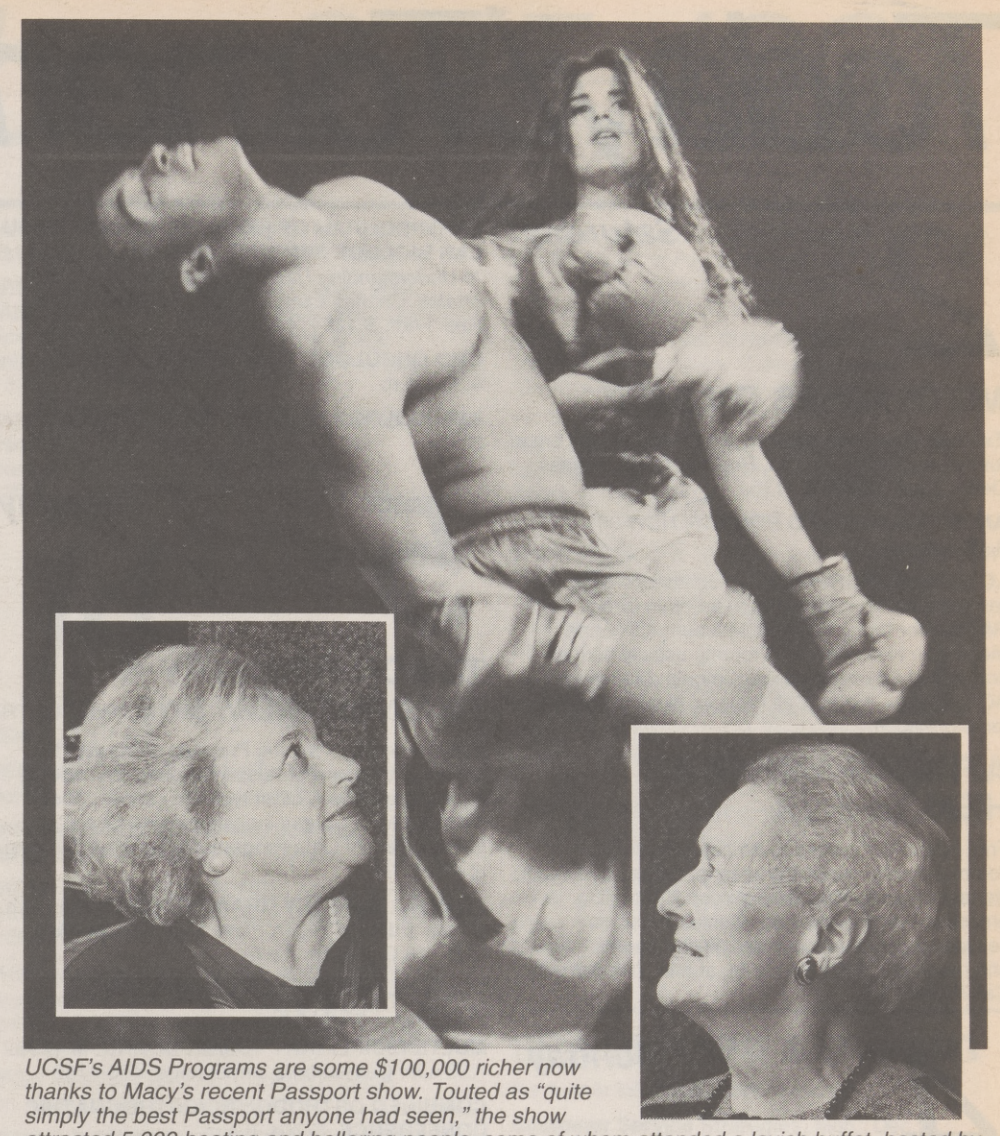
Now until the end of the year, you can stroll through our new library and gaze at 15 pieces of beautiful sculpture by some of the Bay Area's finest artists, including Stephen de Staebler, Fletcher Benton, Rick Soss, Robert Brady, Yoshio Taylor and Yoshitomo Saito.

The idea for such an exhibit began when the library was under construction and the UCSF Committee on Art, Honors & Recognition was asked by Chancellor Krevans to develop criteria for art in the library and to come up with ideas for acquiring such works, especially sculpture. Works by noted artists John VanDerBank, Fred Reichman, R.C. Gorman, and one in memory of former Dean William O. Reinhardt by sculptor Helaman Ferguson, had already been given to the campus. The committee wanted to do something to increase our incipient collection and further enhance our new library.

When a bronze figure by well known Bay Area sculptor Nathan Oliveira was recently donated in memory of clinical professor emeritus Charles Henri Hine, the committee came up with a new approach. This bronze figure inspired the idea for a temporary sculpture exhibit with a general theme of "the human figure." The committee brought in art consultant Lynne Baer, and through her efforts, several artists generously agreed to loan their works to UCSF to supplement the few pieces we already had. "This exhibit was created to both explore the humanistic relationship between art and medicine and to enrich the contemplative aspects of the library," says Baer.

The exhibit is housed on the the main (third) and fifth floors of the library. The committee hopes it will inspire further donations of fine artwork and enable UCSF to expand its permanent collection. "It's time to begin to think of our magnificent new library, not only as a place for contemplation and study, but also as an excellent location in which to view artwork in a harmonious setting," says psychiatry chair Samuel Barondes, who heads the Committee on Art, Honors and Recognition. Also on the committee are Kathy Balestreri, Remi Barron, Douglas Cole, Betty-Ann Hoener, Leonard Kaban, Richard Lucier, Wendy Nelson, Sally Rankin, Guenter Risse, Pat Schindler and Robert Stern.

A Real "Knock-Out"



UCSF's AIDS Programs are some $100,000 richer now thanks to Macy's recent Passport show. Touted as "quite simply the best Passport anyone had seen," the show attracted 5,000 hooting and hollering people, some of whom attended a lavish buffet, hosted by Macy's, the UCSF Auxiliary and the UCSF Foundation. Above, watching the fashion show from excellent seats are UCSF's primary coordinators of the event: (left) Ilse Steinbach, president of the UCSF Auxiliary, and Madlyn Day, chair of the Special Events Committee of the UCSF Foundation. Opening the show was Mayor Agnos, who said he was proud to be part of an event that helped UCSF AIDS Programs — the best in the nation and the world in research and clinical care.

This month, UCSF researchers will begin surveying Chinese adults in the Bay Area to learn about their smoking and health habits.

Researchers who are fluent in English and Chinese (Cantonese and Mandarin) will be telephoning randomly selected Chinese households and interviewing smokers and non-smokers. The study will examine both smoking and passive smoking (exposure to secondhand smoke) patterns. Information from the study will help experts plan health promotion programs aimed at Chinese Americans, a group with high rates of lung cancer, but whose smoking habits are little known.

The UCSF survey is the first study of Chinese smoking practices in the US. California has the largest concentration of Chinese in the US, and about half — 315,000 Chinese Americans — live in the Bay Area.

"We hope the Chinese in the Bay Area will cooperate with researchers and take this oppportunity to help fellow Chinese to improve their health," says Marion Lee, assistant professor, epidemiology and biostatistics, who heads the study.

Among Asian American males, Chinese have the highest rates of lung cancer. The lung cancer rates for Chinese women exceed all ethnic groups, including whites, African-Americans and Hispanics. "Despite these morbidity data, very little is known about smoking rates among Chinese residents of the US," says Lee.

For further information on the UCSF study call 476-0744.

Para Dejar de Fumar

Eliseo Perez-Stable, associate professor, medicine, was the honored speaker at the UC/Health Net Wellness Lecture on campus on October 22. He is one of six researchers chosen to discuss their work as part of the annual series. Perez-Stable is responsible for designing a stop-smoking program for the Latino community. His studies have found that Latinos successfully quit smoking when cessation techniques reflect cultural aspects of smoking behavior. He found that Latinos were lighter smokers than their Anglo counterparts and that they felt they needed less help in quitting.

SFGH Women's Cancer Project . . . Prevention, Early Detection

Rates of breast and cervical cancers are climbing throughout the country. This is reflected locally at SFGH where there are high rates of cervical cancer, particularly in African-American and Latina women. The SFGH Women's Cancer Prevention Committee has just begun a two-year campaign to prevent and detect cervical and breast cancer in SFGH's women patients and employees.

Part of the campaign will be to provide a series of four, small community events, each targeted at a different segment of SFGH's multi-cultural patient population — Latina, African-American, the homeless, and Filipino/Chinese/Southeast Asian. Between 60 and 80 women age 50 or older who are SFGH patients or have no primary source of health care will be invited to receive screening and education.

Clinical training sessions will be held over the two years, designed for providers at all levels of health care work. All clinical departments will be asked to urge faculty, attendings and residents to attend hour-long clinical skills training. The corps of clinical volunteers for the community event series will be recruited from training participants.

Also during the campaign, women employees at SFGH will have access to low or no cost mammography screening.

The SFGH Women's Cancer Prevention Project is funded by the Departments of Medicine and Surgery, the School of Medicine Dean's Office, SFGH Administration and Walgreens.

Candidates Sought for MLK Awards

Nominations now are being sought for the Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. Awards to be given during MLK Week, January 13-16, 1992. Three awards are given annually — one each to a faculty/academic member, a staff employee and a student. Any member of the campus community may nominate someone. Nomination forms are available in the Office of the Chancellor (see Adrian Sooy), Rm. S 126; Moffitt Hospital Information Desk, or the Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Office (see Pauline Bowden), 145 Irving Street, Rm. 102. Deadline for submissions is Monday, November 25, by 5 p.m. For further information, including a full list of criteria, call Pauline at 476-0733.

MLK Week festivities in January will kick off with a panel discussion featuring UC Berkeley sociologist Troy Duster, civil rights attorney Tony Serra and others on the changing racial and ethnic composition of California. There will be a mid-week cultural festival and the MLK Awards Ceremony will end the celebration on January 16. More details to follow in future issues of Newsbreak.

UCSF Night at KQED

The Chancellor's Staff Advisory Committee is looking for UCSF volunteers to answer telephones as part of the KQED Pledge Drive in December. The UCSF contingent will be answering phones during pledge breaks on Wednesday, December 4, from 6:30 to 11:30 p.m. Volunteers need to be at Channel 9, 500-8th Street, by 6 p.m. for training. For further information or to sign up, call Nancy Heller at 476-3206.

Racing for the Cure

Thousands of men and women woke up early last Sunday morning, put on their running gear and headed into Golden Gate Park to be part of the "Race for the Cure," a benefit to raise enough money to give some 3,000 free mammograms to the medically underserved women of the Bay Area. The free breast cancer screening program will be administered by UCSF's Mobile Mammography Van, headed by Ed Sickles. The race was sponsored by the Susan G. Komen Breast Foundation.

Benefits/Personnel

Change Your Insurance Plans Nov. 1 to 27

November is Open Enrollment month, which means from Friday, November 1, through Wednesday, November 27, you can change some of your insurance plans for next year.

The plans available for this year are medical, dental, optical and legal. You also can make changes in DepCare (tax savings on dependent care) and TIP (tax savings on insurance premiums) at this time.

There are several ways in which you can learn about the options. One is through the Open Enrollment brochure you should have received in your home mail by now.

If you feel the need to discuss any of the plans directly with the carrier, representatives from the medical, dental and legal plans will be present at Open Enrollment Open Houses at the following locations and dates. (Benefits staff will be present to answer questions on other plans.) Questions? Call 476-1400.

- Mount Zion: Monday, November 4, 8:30 to 10:30 a.m., Room A-18
- Mission Center: Monday, November 4, 11:30a.m. to 2:30 p.m., Room 125
- Parnassus: Tuesday, November 5, 8 a.m. to 3 p.m., MU Conference Center

Also scheduled are several Open Enrollment meetings, during which staff from the Benefits Office will provide information and answer questions:

Wednesday, November 6: Oyster Point, 8:30 to 10 a.m. and 10:30 to noon.

Thursday, November 7: VAMC Building 203, 3-B-66, 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Monday, November 11: Toland Hall, noon to 1:30 p.m.

Friday, November 15: SFGH Carr Auditorium, noon to 1:30 p.m.

Monday, November 18: Mission Center, Room 125, noon to 1:30 p.m.

Wednesday, November 20: Toland Hall, noon to 1:30 p.m.

Richard Drake Runs for UCRS Board

UCSF's Richard Drake, a manager in Information Technology, is one of 16 candidates from eight UC locations running for a non-Academic Senate post on the UCRS Board. Ballot packs have been mailed to eligible voters. To be counted, ballots must be received by UC Benefits in Oakland by December 2. A ballot box also has been placed in the UCSF Benefits Office at 145 Irving St. Any non-Senate UCRP member who has not received a ballot by November 12 should call 800-888-8267, x70651.

A Recital Series in the Lange Reading Room

Arts & Performances has begun a new recital series featuring UCSF talent in the spectacular Lange Reading Room of our library. The first of the series on the early evening of October 9 starred sopranos Liz Veldarde from Accounting (left) and Eileen Hunt of Ob/Gyn, accompanied by Joseph Kimbel of Berkeley on the harpsichord and Beth Michael of Lafayette on the viola. According to production manager Karen Attix, the concerts will be held once a quarter. Arts & Performances now is looking for campus solo and chamber vocalists and musicians for future concerts who can play acoustic instruments representing Western and world music. For further information call Karen at 476-6761.

"This is Too Wild"

The photograph on the right catches Susan Klugerman of Moffitt Catering as she was strolling through the Faculty/Staff Art Show on October 18. This particular piece of artwork caught her eye as she exclaimed, "This is too wild."

The piece, by Peggy Mason of Neurology, was two bats entitled "Mother and Daughter." Peggy's work was one of 37 on display in the Millberry Union Conference Center at this third annual event.

Below each work, the person was asked to describe why he or she is an artist. Kathryn Lenihan of Housing said, "Art is a necessary part of life." Sexton Sutherland of Anatomy said, "I create art to spend time on the right side of my brain." While Beth Budra of Neurology was a little less ethereal: "I do art to meet excellent dudes."

University of Chicago alumni Joan Florence ('52) and former Graduate Division Dean Lloyd Kozloff ('48). Florence retired four years ago from UCSF after working here 23 years. Kozloff retired just this past June after 11 years on campus.

From One UC to Another . . . One Retiree to Another

The following is a letter from UCSF retiree Joan Florence:

"One of the nice things the University of California does for retirees is send them Newsbreak. In this way, I was able to find out that Dr. Lloyd Kozloff was retiring and a scholarship fund was being set up in his honor.

"Like Dr. Kozloff, I also am from the University of Chicago and ended up working at UCSF. I met Dr. Kozloff while working in the Radiation Oncology Research Lab at Mission Center, where he also had a laboratory, and we reminisced about Chicago's South Side.

"After reading about the fund, I shared the information with the University of Chicago Alumni Club of the SF Bay Area. As a token of esteem, the Club is presenting Dr. Kozloff with a certificate of recognition and a small contribution to the Dean Lloyd M. Kozloff Scholarship Fund at UCSF."

UCSF Musicians in Three Big Events

November seems to be the month for highlighting campus talent. Just check out these three events:

- The UCSF Orchestra will perform on Saturday, November 9, in the Millberry Union gym. Going into its fourth season, the UCSF Orchestra, conducted by Jonathan Davis, will perform the Battalia for Strings and Basso Continuo by H.I.F. Biber, the Concerto for Bassoon in B-flat Major, K. 191 by Mozart and the Symphony #3 in E-flat Major, (Eroica), Op. 55 by Beethoven. Also featured will be the world premiere of eSpejismo bLanco by UCSF composer Tom Babcock from the Department of Physiology. Tickets are $7 general, $4 students. Box office opens at 7 p.m.
- There's a "Grand" Celebration on Thursday, November 14, in the Millberry Conference Center from 4 to 7:30 p.m. A variety of campus talent will come together to help raise money to restore and maintain Millberry's Steinway grand pianos. Works from a variety of composers — from Beethoven to Brahms, Schubert to Debussy — plus some jazz will be performed on piano, flute, cello and guitar by such campus musicians as Andrew Shield, Kathryn Patenaude, Sadja Greenwood, Ben Yen, Peter Hwang, David Verotta, Christine Chen, Herb Peterson, and Betty Yen. A $3 to $5 donation is requested (but, you can give more if you like).
- The San Francisco Choral Society, which the UCSF Community Chorus is part of, will present Beethoven's Ninth Symphony on Sunday, November 17, at 3 p.m. Directed by Adrian G. Horn, the chorus and orchestra consists of over 250 members. For chorus information call 566-8425; ticket information 431-5400.

Fund Performances

For those invested in the 403(b) Plan and the After-tax plan, here are the latest unit values and monthly factors (as of September 30, 1991). The newly reported "annualized yield" reflects the annual yield that could be achieved if the current monthly rate were compounded for one year.

	Monthly Factors	Annual Rate	Annualized Yield
Savings	.0066	8.06%	8.25%
Money Mkt	.0051	6.18%	6.26%
ICCF	.0071	8.70%	8.92%

	Unit Value	1-Month Change	12-Month Change
Bond	$46.89	3.3%	22.1%
Equity	$77.15	-1.3%	29.6%
Multi-Asset	$11.71	0.6%	17.5%

The investment results, as measured by total return figures given above, represent past performance and should not be considered indicative of future results. If you have questions, please call 476-9256.

Medical Center Announces Award Recipients

You may remember a list of campus award winners in an earlier issue of Newsbreak/ Medsounds — and the promise that as soon as the Medical Center awards were announced, a published list would follow. The Medical Center awards have just been announced, not only for 1990-91, but in the case of Special Performance Awards the 1989-90 winners as well. All the awards carry cash prizes and the message that the recipient is the kind of employee who makes the place run like clockwork. (In the case of Special Performance Awards, it also means that the recipient has been at the top of the range in a particular classification for a year or more.)

Note: If you were thinking that budget restrictions had left the awards program up in the air for the time being, you're right. But that's for the current fiscal year. The following are from the two previous budget years.

Here's the honor roll:

Anything for a Free Lunch

Visitors to Physical Therapy's "PT Discovery Day" were invited to stay for lunch — but only if they earned the required number of tickets by participating in various activities. Here, Accounts Receivable's Rene Vargas tries for some tickets as physical therapist Pattye Tobase observes. Other activities included a wheelchair obstacle course, a lifting exercise, strength tests, a balance test and several other examples of modalities used by physical therapists in the rehabilitation process. This was the second annual open house hosted by the department in conjunction with National Physical Therapy Week in October.

Cafeteria Amnesty Day a Big Flop

All that publicity surrounding Amnesty Day in the Moffitt Cafe — and all they got back was about one placesetting's worth of dishes and utensils.

Meanwhile, the problem of disappearing dishes — and food for that matter — continues to mount. Since gentle reminders in the form of asking people to behave in an ethical manner are doing no good whatsoever, a group of intent people are putting their heads together to figure out some more effective methods.

The issues not only include items disappearing from the cafeteria, but also up on the floors — such as huge quantities of snacks and beverages intended for patients and families.

Be warned: There's a big campaign coming. Don't be insulted by it. You can ignore it if it has nothing to do with you.

Handmade Jewelry at November Sale

The UCSF Hospitals Auxiliary will feature the handmade jewelry of Concord artist Gloria Gordon at a two-day sale in the Medical Sciences lobby, Wednesday, November 6, and Thursday, November 7, from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. both days.

Gordon offers two styles — a casual, contemporary collection that combines collage and handpainting over metal collars and cuffs, and a more dressy style in resin with precious gold and silver leaf and artists' oils. Both styles are very colorful, says the artist, and great for accessorizing simple fashions.

You also can pick up "Entertainment '92" discount books at the sale (or anytime at the Auxiliary Office.)

Note: Normally the Auxiliary sponsors an outerwear sale in the fall. Due to circumstances, the sale will not be offered this year.

First Lung Transplant at UCSF

On Wednesday, October 23, a surgical team led by Fraser Keith performed the first lung transplant at UCSF. It was the first lung transplant to be performed at a San Francisco hospital.

The recipient was a 56-year-old Sonoma County woman who was totally debilitated as a result of chronic emphysema. At this writing she was recovering in 9 ICU, reportedly in satisfactory condition, with an anticipated two to three week recuperation in the hospital. The transplant is expected to allow her to return to a life of normal activity.

Keith, who also directs the UCSF heart transplant program, plans to perform all types of lung transplants as part of the UCSF program — single lung, double lung, and heart-lung procedures.

Pulmonologist Jeffrey Golden is the medical director of the lung transplant program.

Candidates for lung transplants include patients who suffered lung damage as a result of obstructive lung disease, such as emphysema; those with fibrotic or restrictive disease, such as pulmonary fibrosis; those with chronic infection, such as cystic fibrosis; and those with pulmonary vascular disease, such as primary pulmonary hypertension.

A total of 189 lung transplants were performed in the United States in 1990, according to the United Network for Organ Sharing, based in Richmond, Virginia.

The CV ICU Crew

The United Way Raffle is Getting to Look a Lot Like Christmas

Five years ago someone in the Medical Center had the idea to spark up the United Way campaign by exchanging donations for a chance at a raffle prize. Participation in the campaign picked up considerably that year, and the raffle not only has become an annual event, but the prize list keeps getting longer every year. As you can see, this year it has grown to truly amazing proportions. Traditionally the prizes have been donated mainly by management types, but this year many staff people kicked in as well.

Medical Center employees (this includes Mount Zion) who make a donation between Monday, November 4, and Friday, November 15, will get a chance at winning one of the following:

- Brunch for six, prepared and delivered by the ACC Administration staff

Now That the Raffle Has Your Interest . . .

Lest the enticing raffle prizes obscure the original reason people might want to make a donation to The United Way, the organizers of the campaign in the Medical Center have scheduled "Getting to Know United Way" fairs on several occasions.

For each event they have invited various agencies that benefit from United Way funds to set up booths. Stop by at one of the following times and learn first-hand where your donations go. (And, of course, they wouldn't call it a fair if there weren't snacks and door prizes.)

- Wednesday, November 6 — 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the Moffitt Cafe
- Thursday, November 7 — 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. in the Mount Zion cafeteria
- Friday, November 8 — 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. in the Mission Center Lobby
- Tuesday, November 12 — 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. in the Mission Center Lobby

For further information on how your United Way dollars can help local agencies — including those organizations helping the East Bay fire victims — see story on page one.

Med Center's New Associate Director

Bruce Schroffel is the new associate director for the Medical Center, filling the spot left by Dennis Brimhall. Schroffel is in charge of overall operations for the Parnassus and Mount Zion sites. A major focus of his new job is the program integration of the two sites.

Schroffel most recently was senior associate director of the Montefiore Medical Center, Henry and Lucy Moses Division, in the Bronx. MMC is a private, not-for-profit, academic teaching hospital with two acute care sites three miles apart, the 760-bed Moses Division and the 500-bed Wyler Division.

Schroffel is a native of the Bay Area. He graduated from UC Berkeley in 1973, and subsequently earned concurrent master's degrees at Columbia, one in public health and another in social work. He was with Montefiore for the past 12 years.

Schroffel currently is awaiting the arrival of his wife and two small children from New York. They plan to settle in San Francisco.

Career Fair in Dec., Health Fair Next Year

If you're accustomed to participating in one or both of two big events traditionally sponsored by the Medical Center each fall — the Children's and Family Health Fair and the "Careers in Health" fair — you may be wondering what happened to these events this year.

The former is going on sabbatical this season and is expected to return in the fall of '92.

"Careers in Health," on the other hand, will take place this year — on Tuesday, December 10. Kathy Lenihan is chairing the event. If you're interested in having your department represented in this annual career fair attended by all ages, grammar school to career re-entry adults, call Judy White at 476-3162 or Victoria Narcowicz at 476-1848 right away.
